GRAIN MARKET.

Heavy selling developed in yesterday's corn market on reports of favorable weather and the continued good receipts. Some selling was credited to operations of an Eastern plunger. The fluidition was inspired by the fact that the weather map showed that rains were general west of the Mississippi River and more or less general in Illinois and parts of Indiana. The Government weekly weather report told of improvement in temperatures in central and Western corn growing States. The crop is general such control and western corn growing States. The crop is generally well cultivated. Frequent rains interfered with field work in a few bearish features was the weekly brogress was made in cultivation and farvesting.
